

MacArthur Still Critical

WASHINGTON (AP) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur remained in critical condition Tuesday. Doctors reported continued slight improvement in one of the complicating symptoms that have beset him and a holding of the line on another.

It was reported by hospital officials that MacArthur, even though under sedation, presumably to relieve any pain, talks to his wife and the doctors, although not carrying on any long conversation.

The authorities did not say whether MacArthur is conscious at all times as he remains in the hospital recovery room where he has been under close watch since Sunday after his third major surgical operation in 24 days.

Faulty Compass In Lost Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Failure of a gyro compass seems to have been the probable cause of a navigation error that carried the reconnaissance bomber plane into Communist East Germany, the Air Force said Tuesday.

Appalachia Gets Federal Assist

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 24.3 per cent of federal funds spent on economic development and accelerated public works have been sent to the depressed Appalachian Mountain area, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

The Area Redevelopment Administration (ARA) and the Accelerated Public Works Agency have approved 1,669 projects for Appalachia.

Rash Of Wildcat Coal Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Mine Workers Union said Tuesday it is "exerting every effort" to end a flurry of wildcat strikes at large coal mines in northern West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio.

W. A. Boyle, UMW president, said district officers have been ordered into the field to persuade the men to return to work.

12 Hours In Jail Each Weekend

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — For the next 52 weeks a 25-year-old Butler steelworker will spend 12 hours each weekend in jail.

John F. Heckathorne drew the sentence Tuesday for involuntary manslaughter in the death of his 9-week-old son more than two years ago.

The baby died of a whip-lash injury, court testimony showed. Heckathorne appealed the conviction and lost.

Pechan Urges Boxing Probe

HARRISBURG (AP) — State Sen. Albert R. Pechan, R-Armstrong, called Tuesday for abolition of boxing in Pennsylvania pending the outcome of a legislative investigation into its pros and cons.

The recent championship fight between Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston was so unconvincing and has left such a bad aftertaste that it has made a mockery of the sport both nationally and internationally, Pechan declared in a resolution.

Dow Jones Average Off

NEW YORK (AP) — Profits were taken in airlines and some of the cigarette issues and the stock market worked irregularly lower Tuesday in fairly active trading.

Volume was 5.27 million shares compared with 6.06 million Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 2.00 at 813.29.

'64 Stickers Today Or Else

HARRISBURG (AP) — L. T. Bernard, director of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, said there would be no extension of Tuesday's deadline for securing 1964 registration stickers.

By midnight Tuesday all passenger cars, suburban autos and motorcycles must bear stickers for the current year or their presence on Pennsylvania's streets and highways will be in violation of the law.

Bernard said the bureau has been mailing out the stickers on the same day the applications are received. Since the bureau was not behind, he said, he saw no reason for an extension of the deadline.

Nikita Woos Red Allies

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev arrived Tuesday and opened strategy talks with his Hungarian allies to strengthen his hand in the struggle with Communist China for leadership of world communism.

The Soviet leader's visit is expected to be largely devoted to laying the groundwork for a summit meeting in Moscow next month of Communist leaders.

Khrushchev and his host, Premier Janos Kadar, touched indirectly on the dispute in an exchange of greetings on the arrival of the Soviet delegation at Budapest's railway station.

Red Unity Theme
Stressing the theme of Communist unity — Moscow's main argument against the Chinese — Khrushchev said his talks "will consolidate and strengthen socialism. We are convinced that our exchange of views will be most interesting and useful."

Kadar called the visit "a further contribution to the progress and unity of the socialist movement."

The meeting takes place against a background of mounting Red Chinese attacks on Moscow and intensive propaganda aimed at deepening the split between Peking and Moscow factions in parties outside the East European orbit.

Peking Blasts
The last barrage of invectives, fired Monday by Peking as Khrushchev's train was moving toward Hungary, denounced him as "the greatest capitulationist of history" and urged international Communist parties to "repudiate and liquidate Khrushchev's revisionism."

In Hungary, the Soviet leader is among friends. The Kadar regime's policy of liberalization, which brought a considerable raise in living standards, stands in sharp contrast to the Chinese thesis of Communist evolution through force. And the Hungarians remember that Peking urged Moscow to smash the revolution in 1955.

The first talks were attended on the Soviet side by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko; Yuri Andropov, a Soviet Central Committee secretary in charge of interparty relations; and other high political and economic experts. The Russians and Hungarians met in the Parliament building.

Closed Door Policy
At this stage of the Moscow-Peking dispute, little is expected to become public. Reliable sources, however, have reported that Moscow and three of its strongest East European supporters — the Hungarian, Polish and Bulgarian parties — are ready for a showdown with the Chinese unless Peking shows a willingness to settle the feud peacefully.

The contrary seems to be the driving force in Peking at the moment, Moscow's latest peace efforts, undertaken by a Romanian mission in Peking, judged a failure. The Red Chinese not only refused to abandon their attacks but even demanded that Moscow exercise "self-criticism" — in other words admit defeat, informants reported.

Brazil Torn By Military Revolt

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Joao Goulart Tuesday night ordered troops to smash a spreading politico-military revolt against his left-leaning government.

At the same time the Communist-dominated General Command of Workers called a general strike to begin at midnight.

Milford Man Dies Of Wounds

MILFORD, Pa. — A 72-year-old Milford man died last night of self-inflicted wounds from a high-powered rifle, State Police reported.

State Police at Milford said Gustave Warncke, 72, of Christian Hill died at 7 p.m. in St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis, N. Y., from chest wounds.

The wounded man was discovered at 5:45 p.m. yesterday by Elizabeth Case, the operator of a boarding house where Warncke lived.

Trooper Nicholas Arch who investigated said the man used a 30-30 Winchester rifle. No other details were available.

Mrs. Peabody Held By Florida Cops

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — The 72-year-old mother of the governor of Massachusetts was jailed Tuesday for refusing to leave a segregated restaurant.

Police used dogs to round up 117 other demonstrators.

Mrs. Malcolm Peabody was placed in a jail with about a half-dozen other white women. She said it was the first time she had ever been inside a jail and that she planned to spend the night.

"I want the experience the others are having," she said. "It would be too easy to come in and then just get out."

Mrs. Peabody, wife of a retired Episcopal bishop, was arrested as she sat with a mixed group in the dining room of the Ponce de Leon motor lodge. When they refused to leave, they were booked on trespass charges.

In Boston, Gov. Endicott Peabody said his mother was arrested for "attempting to obtain equal rights for all American citizens." He said he had talked with Florida Gov. Farris Bryant and been assured that his mother "is safe and well."

Since the Easter weekend test of segregation practices in this,

The president ordered troops of the First Army here to move against rebels in the strongly anti-Communist neighboring state of Minas Gerais where a "revolutionary capital" was proclaimed at Juiz de Fora, 80 miles north of Rio de Janeiro.

He sent the troops both against Juiz de Fora and the state capital, Belo Horizonte, where the governor had proclaimed himself in support of the movement to overthrow Goulart.

The president declared in a statement to the nation that the revolt would be snuffed within a few hours.

Reports here said that a battalion of shock troops and the 5th infantry regiment stationed at nearby Petropolis moved out Tuesday night for Juiz de Fora. A rebel general there had accused Goulart of being manipulated by Communists and declared that "he must be put out of power which he abuses."

There was no immediate word of government action against the huge industrial Sao Paulo state whose governor had indicated he was ready to join the anti-Goulart uprising.

Democrats Want Probe Of Trooper Role In UC Fight

HARRISBURG (AP) — Senate Democrats Tuesday demanded a full scale investigation of the presence of state police in the House during debate on Gov. Seranton's controversial unemployment compensation program.

"Don't forget, members of the Nazi Party used the same technique in Germany to destroy

Impeachment Urged
At the same time, Sen. William Vincent Mullin, D-Philadelphia, said if he were a member of the House, he would start proceedings to impeach Gov. Seranton "for misusing his power."

Sparkman Pushes Flexible U.S. Policy

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Sen. John J. Sparkman said on Tuesday night the United States may find it necessary to "consider some new strategy" if its economic and diplomatic boycott of Cuba fails.

Sparkman, a senior member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also called for increasing flexibility in U.S. trade and other policies toward Communist countries on a selective basis.

In a prepared lecture at the University of Alabama, he contended that if the West refused to be bound by "dogmatic conceptions of policy" toward all Red countries, it could encourage "growing divergencies within the bloc" to its own advantage.

The lecture is one of a series presented annually by the Jason A. Senior men's honorary scholastic society at the university.

Sparkman, an Alabama democrat, said prospects were not bright for improved relations with East Germany, Red China or Cuba. As for Cuba, he said, "I feel the present situation is intolerable on a long-range basis."

"I do think that as long as Communist Cuba is engaged in aggressive and subversive activities against the free nations of Latin America—as it was recently proven to be against Venezuela by a special commission of the Organization of American States—we must maintain our efforts to tighten the political and economic isolation of the Castro regime," he declared.

Sparkman said he believed the West, and especially the United States, has not taken full advantage of the opportunities which have become available to the free world in its relations with Communist countries.

LBJ Speeds Aid To Rocky Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Federal and state officials bode down Tuesday on speeding a massive aid program to relieve human suffering in quake-torn Alaska and restore its crippled economy.

President Johnson and Gov. William A. Egan both prodded aides for quick action to insure continued food and shelter for the dispossessed and financial help for jobs.

The count of victims from the terrible earthquake of last Friday went on. Confusion in the tally persisted, due to sketchy reports from farflung villages hit by seismic waves stirred by the quake.

Death Toll Rises

The toll of Alaska dead and presumed dead was upped Tuesday morning to 178, with word attributed to state police in Kodiak of 22 dead and 50 missing.

The previous figure on the picturesque island was 7 dead and 14 missing. Later in the day the new figures were questioned, but no substitute figures were offered.

But combined with the 13 dead and 7 missing from quake-caused sea waves in California and Oregon, the over-all total seemed likely to surpass 200.

President Johnson studied Monday night aerial photos of ravaged Alaska, then issued new orders for a speed-up in relief aid.

His chief aide in the program, Edward A. McDermott, director of the Office of Emergency Planning (OEP) called for nearly a score of federal agencies to report on what they can do under existing law in rehabilitation and recovery efforts.

This was the picture: Fishing and canning industries wiped out in many towns, crippled in others; the profitable tourist trade a question mark; the railroad out of commission, its facilities shattered between Seward on the sea and the two major communities of Anchorage and Fairbanks; waterfront shipping facilities extensively damaged; the road network ripped up in many areas; hundreds of buildings destroyed or damaged.

A housing expert was being sent from Washington to establish an Anchorage emergency center to help homeless get new loans for rebuilding.

The Small Business Administration sent experts to make disaster loans.

A special bill is planned to acquire fishing vessels on the Pacific Coast and make them available to Alaskans when the fishing season opens May 1.

The Military Air Transport Service, the Navy, the Air Force, food, clothing and every conceivable kind of equipment needed to make comfortable the thousands who have been living primitively since homes were destroyed.

The government also indicated that the key fishing industry will get long-term, low-interest loans and possibly direct subsidies for reconstruction.

Officials of the government-owned Alaska Railroad said it is likely service will be restored within two weeks between Fairbanks and Anchorage and on several lesser spur lines.

Art Center Jolted

Orchestra Bows To Saratoga Bid

STROUDSBURG — Plans for a proposed $361,000 Pocono Art Center received a stunning jolt yesterday when the Philadelphia Orchestra announced it will take up permanent summer residence in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

The proposed Pocono center was being designed with the express purpose of providing such a summer home for the world-famed orchestra.

Yesterday's announcement apparently left a large crimp in local plans.

Mrs. Marcia Clapp DeRocco, chairman of the Pocono Art Center, said yesterday the Saratoga announcement created "no interference whatsoever" with art center plans.

Convening on the Philadelphia intention to make their summer home in Saratoga Springs, Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the orchestra and newly named director of the Saratoga Festival said:

"We eagerly anticipate bringing the great music of the past and present to Saratoga audiences in the beautiful natural surroundings which, we hope, may be our summer home for years to come."

In a joint announcement the orchestra and the Saratoga Performing Arts Center said a series of 20 concerts will be performed during August in the New York State resort town. The festival will begin in 1968.

Ground will be broken next fall for a $2.4 million amphitheater on a sloping wooded site of the 1800-acre state-owned reservation south of Saratoga Springs. The amphitheater will seat 5,200 persons. An additional 7,000 will be accommodated on the surrounding lawns.

Under the plan the orchestra would come to Saratoga Springs each August following its six-week Robin Hood Del season in Philadelphia.

C. Winton Balls, president of the orchestra association, noted that the Saratoga plan fitted in with management's commitment of providing year-round employment to its musicians.

"We have, in consequence, been actively interested in establishing a summer home, and a great many alternatives have been considered by our board of directors over the past few months."

"We have come to the conclusion that the Saratoga Festival offers the most exciting prospect artistically coupled with an ideal summer environment for our musicians," Balls said.

In the face of this announcement, Mrs. DeRocco said, "We are making plans and negotiating with the orchestra for a Pocono Music Festival to open June 1 to 16, 1966, with the added possibility of a second series in September."

"We have a letter of intent from the orchestra for an annual concert series beginning June 1, 1966."

She said Balls and Orville H. Bullitt, chairman of the association board, plan to visit the site on Butternut Falls Road near Shawnee April 14 to review art center plans and progress.

"We have firm assurances from the orchestra that they want to come here in June and September," Spencer Cramer, art center board member, said yesterday. "Festivals in June and September are the two periods which will help the Pocono most."

Mrs. DeRocco and Cramer said Pocono resorts have been most interested in concerts outside their normal busy vacation season of July and August.

Mrs. DeRocco said the Pocono festival site would be dedicated at two Philadelphia Orchestra concerts here Aug. 11 and 12, 1964, possibly under a tent.

She said the art center plans to dedicate its proposed music pavilion for 6,000 people with a concert series in the summer of 1963.

Between the proposed June and September concert series, Mrs. DeRocco said the art center would put on ballet, opera, Shakespeare and other drama, as well as art exhibitions, lectures, folk singing and dancing and regular art center activities.

State Lauds Work Of Dams

HARRISBURG (UPI)—Damage on the West Branch of the Susquehanna River during recent inundation might have been infinitely worse except for the series of flood control dams state officials said Tuesday.

Forest and Waters Secretary Maurice K. Goddard reported that two dams — the George R. Stevenson Dam on Sinnema-honing Creek and Kettle Creek Dam — cut the water level by almost two feet at Lock Haven and downstream from that point.

Goddard said water was stored in the state-owned Stevenson Dam to a depth of 104 feet. He estimated that this reduced the water level of the West Branch of the Susquehanna by 1.5 feet. The Kettle Creek Dam cut another .70 of a foot from the maximum flood level.

Nickel Fare Hike Sought

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Public Service Coordinated Transport said it filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission today seeking 5-cent fare increases on certain lines operating between New Jersey and New York City and Philadelphia.

The company, hit by a 16-day strike earlier this month, said the fare rises were sought chiefly because of additional wage costs and other employee benefits provided in a new contract with the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees.

Public Service said fare increases were being sought on 18 lines operating between northern New Jersey and New York City and on 30 lines operating between South Jersey and Pennsylvania.

St. Louis Unit Boosts Scranton

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A St. Louis advertising executive announced Monday the formation of a Scranton for President Committee of Greater St. Louis.

David Ferriss said he and a group of Republicans will work actively in the St. Louis area in behalf of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton for the GOP presidential nomination.

Ferriss, a Gardner Advertising Company vice president and brother of St. Louis County Circuit Judge Franklin Ferriss, said one of the committee's objectives is to send uncommitted Missouri delegates to the July 13 Republican national convention.

He said he feels no presidential candidate will go to the convention with enough delegates to win, and there is a good chance an uncommitted Missouri delegation would swing to Scranton in later balloting.

"I'm convinced he (Scranton) is going to be nominated," Ferriss said.

Stanley P. Christopher of Kansas City said Monday that grassroots organizations for Scranton have been established in eight of Missouri's 10 congressional districts. Christopher started a Scranton movement in the Kansas City area early in February.

The two were elected by the Democratic State Committee to complete the list of 54 delegates-at-large, most of whom were chosen at a meeting Jan. 28.

The state committee also elected 69 alternate delegates-at-large.

In other action, Andrew Bradley, party treasurer, said the committee's annual $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner will probably be held the first Saturday in June.

Familiar Faces To Leave Senate

(Editor's Note: Major candidates usually generate all the noise of a political campaign, but there are important side issues to any election. The Associated Press Harrisburg staff has been examining the legislative offices to be filled at the April 28 primary. Here is a report on the state senate).

By DAVE LEHERR
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG (AP)—Five senators with a total of 55 years' service will feel the first major impact of Pennsylvania's new legislative reapportionment law in the April 28 primary.

Sens. Israel Stiefel, D-Philadelphia; Peter J. Camiel, D-Philadelphia; Thomas A. Ehrgood, R-Lebanon; Martin L. Murray, D-Luzerne; and Walter E. Morris, R-Jefferson, will not be running for re-election.

Meanwhile, eight incumbents face opposition in the primary, including Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, R-Dauphin, the ageless president pro tempore of the Senate and a major power in Republican politics.

Taylor's adversary is William B. Lutz, a Millersburg real estate broker whose father is a close friend of the 87-year-old senator. Although considered token, the opposition is the first of any significance against Taylor in many years.

A special election also will be held April 28 to fill the vacancy caused by the death in December of Sen. Henry J. Probert, R-Montgomery.

Rep. Morton H. Fetterolf Jr., majority whip in the House, will battle Democrat Daniel S. Bready of Hatboro for Probert's seat.

Another vacancy also exists from the death of Sen. Gus P. Verona, D-Northampton, but the seat will not be filled until after the primary, since the election code requires a 60-day waiting period between the call and the actual election.

At least three of the five senators affected by the reapportionment law had hoped to continue their careers in the Senate—Stiefel with 28 years' service, Murray with seven, and Morris with two.

Ehrgood said before the reapportionment law was passed he would not seek re-election. Camiel was non-committal.

Murray was eased out when Luzerne County's second seat was eliminated. Stiefel's and Camiel's districts were merged with the one now held by Sen. Benjamin Donolow, D-Philadelphia. Donolow does not come up for re-election until 1966.

Total impact of the controversial reshuffle will not be known for months, maybe years. The law is already being challenged in the courts. If approved, it is certain to have far-reaching effects into the future.

On the other hand, if knocked down it could necessitate a complete new primary.

Four Democrats and four Republicans face opposition in the primary. One of the toughest battles appears to be in the 41st district where Sen. Albert R. Pechan, R-Armstrong, is seeking re-election. Opposing the majority whip is William R. McMillen, a Blairsville manufacturer.

Democratic floor leader Charles R. Weiner of Philadelphia comes up against a clergyman—Marshall L. Shepard Jr.—in a bid for another term.

Sens. John J. Haluska, D-Cambria, and John Carl Miller, D-Beaver, face three opponents each. Only half the 50 senators are up for reelection this year.

Others with varying degrees of opposition are Albert E. Madigan, R-Bradford; Paul W. Ma-hady, D-Westmoreland, and William G. Sesler, D-Erie.

Newcomers will be elected in Philadelphia's 3rd and 5th districts, and the relocated 17th and 21st districts.

The 3rd and 5th districts were represented by Camiel and Stiefel under the old law, but their boundaries were changed by reapportionment.

The 17th district embracing part of Montgomery County replaced Luzerne County's second district, and the new 21st district (Butler and Lawrence counties) takes the place of Lebanon County which was shifted into a combined district with Schuylkill County.

11 Homeless After Blaze

SWOYERSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A pre-dawn fire that wrecked a two-story frame house today killed a 65-year-old man, injured seven other occupants, and left 11 homeless.

Andrew Hanadel, the victim, was trapped on the second floor of the house.

All the others had been sleeping in rooms on that floor, too, but they saved themselves by jumping 15 feet from windows. Raging flames and choking smoke barred the way to the first floor.

The regulations, which go into effect April 1, were recommended last week.

Boating Rules Get Support

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Fish Commission this week approved boating regulations recommended by the new advisory board on boating.

The regulations, which go into effect April 1, were recommended last week.

They follow the legislation approved in 1963 to bring Pennsylvania's boating licensing and numbering into conformity with federal rules. The action will give Pennsylvania reciprocity with other states.

LeBars Hear Son, Family Safe

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Alaskan visit of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood LeBar of 276 Normal St., East Stroudsburg, ended Monday night.

On Monday the LeBars learned their serviceman son, Sgt. Bernard LeBar and his family, who live near Elmendorf Air Force Base, near Anchorage, were safe and sound after the earth shattering Alaskan quake.

LeBar said he was able to get his son on the telephone and learned the family was unhurt but the house they lived in was damaged.

Conditions "Unspeckable"

Sgt. LeBar described the conditions in Alaska as "unspeckable." He told his father when the tremors started he took his two children Chris, 14, and Scott Paul, 4, out of the house and sat in his car.

The Air Force man said when his wife, Ruth, returned from work she joined them in the car and they spent the night there.

The elder LeBar said he wished to thank the local chapters of the American Red Cross and Salvation Army, and priests at St. Matthew Roman Catholic Church in East Stroudsburg. He said he received words of encouragement from each organization.

East Bangor Citizens' Unit Awaits Rooney Report

EAST BANGOR — Will Congressman Fred B. Rooney be present at a meeting he said he would attend Thursday at 8 p.m. in East Bangor?

This was the question in the minds of 20 citizens in this State Belt community when they met last night in Mayor Bernard Parsons' barbershop.

Last week Rooney said he and a representative of the Post Office Department would attend the meeting to discuss the pros and cons of the new post office building for the Borough of East Bangor.

"As of tonight I have no knowledge of a meeting being arranged by Rooney. The only thing I know about it is what I have read in the newspapers. I have heard that he (Rooney) was trying to arrange the meeting for the Lions Hall of the Town Hall."

"As of tonight Rooney has not contacted any representatives of the Lions Club or borough officials," Parsons told the meeting.

The meeting was called by the Citizens For Progress, a group interested in the construction of a new post office in the borough.

Parsons, in reviewing the issue for the benefit of newsmen present, said, "In January 1963, about 100 residents of the borough petitioned the late Congressman Francis E. Walter asking for a new post office building in the borough."

Funds in Budget

"Walter was influential in having the postal department include necessary funds for the new building in its 1963-64 budget."

"The post office authorities have advanced plans to the point where a site has been selected, necessary surveys completed, architectural drawings are complete, and I know of one contractor who has placed a bid for the project."

"In the interim a second petition was circulated in the borough and 305 signatures were obtained. These signatures, in the petition, wanted door-to-door delivery and as a result of the petition Rooney has halted the plans for construction."

A third petition has been circulated in the borough and 420 signatures were obtained. Many of these people are people who signed the second petition, the one which halted the project, and now want the new post office building with or without door-to-door delivery.

"The third petition was circulated after 18 persons met with Rooney in his Bethlehem office in February."

"I can't understand how or why a congressman can ignore the wishes of about 70 per cent of the voters, who said, when they signed the last petition to Rooney, they want a new post office building with or without door-to-door delivery," said Russell Williams, a member of the citizens group.

$6,807 Business

Mrs. Edward Abbott, another interested citizen attending the meeting last night, said, "There has been talk going around that the present post office does not make any money."

"I spoke to Mrs. Hazle Housberg, postmistress, and she showed me the books. During last year the post office's business was $6,807.76. I know the figure because I wrote it on a piece of paper when it was shown to me."

Parsons told the meeting the site for the new post office building is just a couple of doors down the street from his barbershop. The property is owned by Mariano Savari and is on Central Ave., East Bangor.

Cherry Blossom Time Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The famed cherry trees around the capital's tidal basin are likely to be in full bloom this weekend, the Park Service predicted Tuesday.

Director T. Sutton Jett of the National Park Service's national capital region, said he based the estimate on expectations of warmer weather later this week and indications that one day with temperatures in the high 60's or low 70's would bring the trees into full bloom. Two such days will make it a certainty, Jett added.

Community Chest To Give Each Agency Full Share

STROUDSBURG — At the 20th annual meeting of the Monroe County Community Chest and Council last night at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, a long range look at its past history when it has distributed $1,316,000 to its member agencies was coupled with a long look into the future with its rapidly changing relationships between public and private agencies.

It was a time for self-congratulation. Ralph Reppert, 1963-64 Campaign chairman reported that $112,107 had been pledged in the campaign, the largest amount ever raised. With money returned from an agency, the Chest realized its goal of $112,000 and each member agency will receive its full allocation.

614 Volunteers

Reppert reported that 614 volunteers had worked in the campaign with individual gifts from 6,191 persons, to each of whom he voiced his appreciation.

Chest President Jesse Flory presented a citation to Reppert and in return received a citation for his own service from Arlington W. Williams. Both Reppert and Flory paid tribute to executive secretary, Ethel West. Of last year's pledges of $103,000 only $450 remains unpaid, they pointed out.

Francis Drake, treasurer, reported the current financial status of the chest and also presented the aggregate figure of more than a million dollars distributed in its 20 year history.

J. Albert Groner was elected president for the new year; Arlington Williams, first vice president; Ralph E. Reppert, second vice president; Mrs. Gilbert Bar-

$189,092 Headed For Monroe

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — A total of $189,092.27 in local road monies has been cleared by the Department of Highways for forwarding to 20 political subdivisions in Monroe County—part of $28,390,232 slated for distribution to towns, cities and boroughs throughout the state as a whole.

The funds represent the first of two installments for the year under terms of Act 655—commonly known as the "Home Rule Road Act"—calling for payments direct to communities (as opposed to liquid fuels tax payments later in the year made by the state to counties for distribution at the discretion of county commissioners to their political subdivisions).

In the present case, the monies are also derived from liquid fuels taxes but apportionment of the funds is made directly to political subdivisions on a population-mileage formula. The funds are to be used for construction and maintenance of streets, roads and bridges within the municipalities, according to Secretary of Highways Henry D. Harrel, who noted in a covering letter to municipal officials:

"Now that the construction season is close at hand, I hope each of you will put forth your best effort in helping our common problem of providing better highways for all."

90 Per Cent of Total

The payments represent 90 per cent of the year's total; the remaining ten per cent will be forwarded in October, according to the department which listed these payments to Monroe County political subdivisions:

TOWNSHIPS—Barrett, $1,420.78; Chestnut Hill, $12,850.24; Coolbaugh, $6,582.10; Eldred, $8,731.62; Hamilton, $16,817.10; Jackson, $8,790.73; Middle Smithfield, $15,251.40; Paradise, $8,406.01.

POCONO, $12,154.58; Polk, $13,339.01; Price, $2,422.13; Ross, $8,884.73; Smithfield, $10,699.96; Stroud, $17,456.32; Tobyhanna, $6,508.35; Tunkhannock, $2,238.35.

BOROUGHS—Delaware Water Gap, $1,243.86; East Stroudsburg, $12,281.26; Mount Pocono, $2,986.53; Stroudsburg, $9,794.01.

Frank Butler, chairman of the annual Monroe Dinner to be held April 25, in the Penn-Stroud Hotel, told the meeting a nationally known speaker will be at the affair. Tickets can be obtained from club members, according to Butler.

Bathtub Irony

Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., first American to orbit the earth, has quit his race for the U. S. Senate in Ohio because of an injury to his head suffered when he fell against a bathtub Feb. 26. His bad luck is full of irony. Here was a man of superior courage and intelligence, who took immeasurable risks in his Project Mercury flight around the earth, felled finally by the common accident of slipping in the bathroom.

The man who traveled at thousands of miles a minute through space, who flew 150 missions in two world wars and hundreds of test flights without a scratch, slipped on a rug in his bathroom, while trying to fix a mirror, and hit his head on the bathtub.

Damage to the sense-of-balance mechanism in his left inner ear still causes dizziness, nausea and a ringing noise, according to his doctors who urged him not to run for the Senate.

The Marine astronaut, a man of integrity and honesty, said he did not think he should run if he could not campaign and tell the voters what he stands for and what he proposes to do in Congress.

As he said in a very frank statement: "No man has a right to ask for a seat in either branch of the Congress merely because of a specific event such as orbiting the earth in a spacecraft, any more than he would have that right just by being a lawyer and having tried a few cases at the local courthouse."

That final statement was also full of irony. Glenn's opponents had said he had no other qualifications for office than the fame and publicity of his space flight.

Joint Municipal Dumps

Bangor Mayor Quintus LaBar said in a Daily Record interview this week that proper disposal of trash and garbage is a growing problem that may best be solved on an area basis rather than by individual townships, and boroughs.

It is a sound proposal, one which more and more Pocono Mountain-Slate Belt area communities will have to consider.

The disposal problem in many communities and particularly in parts of the Pocono Mountain area is a lack of proper disposal areas.

One of the complicating difficulties is a lack of easily-available dirt for land fill dump operations. State health regulations require daily bulldozing of an earth cover over landfill dumps, but many area dumps are located in areas without sufficient earth to provide daily cover.

The State Health Department closes its eyes to many breaches of its landfill operation regulations. But the time may soon come when population and more crowded land use will force a stricter enforcement of landfill regulations.

When that time comes, townships and boroughs which are not worrying about garbage and trash disposal now will have to consider area disposal facilities for more than one municipality.

Such a joint disposal facility is now operated at the East Stroudsburg landfill dump for collectors in both East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg boroughs and some surrounding township areas.

The time is not too far distant when similar joint operations may be the cheapest and best way for other groups of townships to solve a common problem.

Comment Of The Day

"There are those who say the poor will always be with us."

"I do not believe it. President Johnson does not believe it. I do not believe the members of the Congress of the United States believe it."

The Pennsylvania Story

Democrats Miss Scandal

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Somewhat amusingly perhaps, Pennsylvania Democrats are a bit on the fussed and nettled side as they head into critical campaign year 1964.

This derives not so much from the fact that they may be fouled up within their own ranks as from the point that in the fifteen months the Republican Scranton Administration has been raising the flag on Capitol Hill they simply have been unable to turn up a good campaign scandal!

Scandals as such invariably in the past have been viewed as "hot buns" at campaign time and if one could be brewed against the "ins" by the "outs," it was usually regarded as somewhat of a classic stroke of good fortune (although actually such strategy seemingly is open to great question).

Fundamentally a scandal produced by the "outs" invariably has a touch of the campaign machine in which seemingly a goodly portion of the electorate writes it off as mere campaign fluff — that is, unless it's a real whing-dinger (such as the time during the past Lawrence Administration when they threatened to half-fund the squirrels on Capitol Hill as an economy move).

But as far as the incumbent Scranton Administration is concerned on the scandal front, there actually hasn't been sufficient time for anything of a really hot potato classification to brew as yet.

The administration has been in office only fifteen months and when a politically new administration moves onto Capitol Hill it takes just about that long to effectively weed out the old officeholders and install the new party brand.

The thing works two ways however. A new administration of opposing political leanings is in excellent position to develop some sort of scandal involving the former (opposition) administration.

With the advent of Republicanism — after two administrations and eight years of Democratic rule — even this has failed to blossom, thus linking many a GOP politician who had visions of such a turn of events cementing his party firmly in its political soup.

In fact, it will be somewhat surprising if at the end of four years the nominally calm and serene Scranton Administration produces a scandal worth mentioning against Democrats — and whether Democrats will be able to come up with anything against the Scranton Administration!

On this score the Scranton Administration may run a close tie with the preceding Democratic Lawrence Administration for sobriety (literal) uneventfulness, calm moving of the Capitol lawn and raking of leaves.

Former Governor Lawrence abhorred the thought of any sort of rough play (in public) that might even remotely approach the scandal stage. Usually it was a case of unruffled ruffled feathers — to avoid any such commotion.

The preceding Democratic Leader Administration — the first such Democratic administration to brood among the shrubs on Capitol Hill in sixteen years — proved just the opposite, turning up scandals not only involving the opposition Republican Party (the turnpike scandal) but also, its own Democratic Party as well (the highway tender scandal).

It was this sort of modus operandi that fouled up the works of strategists in both parties, who heretofore had been accustomed to following the concept of pounding the brethren on the other side of the political fence only.

All of this has tended to produce sort of a stalemate on the Robert Baker front in Pennsylvania. Neither side is quite certain of what might ultimately develop if either opens its mouth, with the result that if there has been any passing of nickels and parking tickets under the table no one has said anything about it.

Off The Record: —By BOB CLARK

Man's Part In Wedding

If, in this Leap Year of 1964, the coming June brides took advantage of their prerogative and popped the question, then this year's bridegrooms should at least shine as the star of their wedding. Therefore, this year might be the year to inaugurate a new way of reporting a wedding. This might well be included in the story of a formal wedding:

"The bridegroom entered from the front of the church, escorted by his best man.

"He wore a three-piece costume of elegant simplicity, the more dramatic for being carried out in shades of black and grey.

"The coat was in fine black wool with a dull finish, and was cut short at the waistline in front. The lapels turned back to reveal a pearl grey vest fastened with three studs of smoked pearl. Under it was worn a shirt of dazzling whiteness with a stiff snug-fitting collar.

"A tie of heavy silk in quiet diagonal stripes of black and grey was draped and turned to form a triangular knot at the neckline just between the points of the collar. The white of the shirt was echoed in a single white carnation fastened to the lapel by a simple straight pin.

"The set-in sleeves were wrist-length and were trimmed with three buttons at the lower edge, just above the thin white line of the starched shirt cuff, which were fastened with smoked pearl cuff-links.

"The grey and white striped trousers hung straight from the waistline almost to the tops of the highly polished black shoes. The long line of the center crease was emphasized by a slight "dimple" just below mid-calf. As the bridegroom advanced to meet the bride, one trouser leg was caught by a palm branch, pulling up prettily to reveal black silk socks.

"As the wedding party turned to face the altar, it could be discovered that the back of the jacket was trimmed with low buttons covered with self fabric, at the waistline, and then fell in two graceful tails, ending just below the knee, each of which also was trimmed by a single button at the lower points.

"The effect was further emphasized by the fact that the best man and all of the ushers wore identical costumes, so as they stood in a line they resembled a row of black-clad claret points, an effect emphasized by the fact that the bride and her attendants wore white or pastel colors in unsubstantial fabrics.

As the wedding couple knelt at the altar, it became plain that the bridegroom was wearing shoes especially purchased for the occasion, with the soles still of a pristine lightness.

An original touch completed the bridegroom's ensemble. Each sole was hand-leathered in big black letters. The letters on the left-hand sole were "H.E.L.P." while those on the right were "M.E.I."

APRIL FOOL TO YOU TOO —BOBBY WESTBROOK

The Allen-Scott Report

Medicare Action

WASHINGTON — Increases in Social Security benefits — yes; Medicare — no!

That's the backstage strategy of key leaders of the House Ways & Means Committee, which will start drafting a bill on these politically explosive issues next week when the House returns from its Easter recess.

Two factors primarily are behind the contemplated Social Security boosts:

This is deemed good campaign politics in a major election year; and the proposed increases will — it is hoped — counter the administration-supported demand for medical care for the aged under the Social Security system.

To further bolster this strategy, there is good possibility the Mills-Kerr Act will be revised to provide more medical care for indigents over 65.

That's favored by Representative Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., committee chairman, author of the Act and a strong opponent of Social Security-financed Medicare. Mills concedes his existing legislation "is falling short of needs," and his concept of dealing with that problem is to "improve" the prevailing method.

Just how that would be done, Mills admits, is still unsolved.

His general idea is to provide the states which administer the Mills-Kerr program with more money; also to tie this medical care for aged indigents into the Blue Cross plan. This will require finding answers for complex financial and other problems, which Mills readily acknowledges is still to be accomplished.

Basis for expanding Social Security benefits is H. R. 6688, sponsored by Mills.

Its major purpose is to increase the current $127 maximum monthly pension to $140 or more. To that end, maximum income coverage would be hiked from $4,800 to $5,400, and tax rates from 3-5/8 per cent each for employer and employee to around 4 per cent, and from 5.4 per cent to about 5.7 per cent for self-employed.

All the actual rates have still to be formulated and passed on by the Ways & Means Committee.

Empty Protestations—While outwary administration leaders are still professing that Medicare has a chance this year, privately they talk differently.

They admit they still lack the votes in Mills' committee, and that the protracted civil rights battle in the Senate just about forecloses any prospect of Medicare being considered there — even if it should somehow manage to win House approval.

That's why administration leaders in both the House and Senate are so positive there will be some increases in Social Security benefits, and so vague about Medicare.

A significant hint of this backstage attitude was President Johnson's statement in a labor speech last week — in which he vigorously proclaimed his ardent zeal for Medicare, but was decidedly indefinite as to when it is likely to be enacted, if ever!

He was strongly for it, but very nebulous on specifics.

Dear Abby

Sinners And Saints

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Will you please give a couple of poor saps some information? I believe there must be hundreds of people in our shoes. We have been living together since 1941. We do not belong to a church because we do not feel we are worthy of going to church. Yes, we do have children. Abby, we want to get married and live right and, after all these years, we don't know where to turn except to you. Is there a state that doesn't require a three-day waiting period? We couldn't be married too near here as we are very well-known. God bless you, Abby, if you can help us.

Fort Leonard Wood to start his first leave since enlisting in the Army. I smelled spirits on his breath for the first time. While home, he casually remarked, "The new recruits go over to the PX at night, have a few beers and get kicked out of shape."

Is it just big talk, or is it what Uncle Sam offers our 17-year-old sons whom we have given permission to join the service? Had we known this could happen, we would not have signed for him. What is the truth about this situation, Miss Abby?

DEAR SINNERS: The very fact that you are troubled by the way you have been living proves that you are worthy of going to church. A church is not a museum for saints — it's a hospital for sinners. Go to a clergyman, whether you belong to a church now or not, and let him chart your course. You will be amazed at how easily you can legalize your union quietly, without publicity. Good luck.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Doctor, I'd Like To Know

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have been trying to find some information in regard to a hysterectomy and have not been successful. I have been told that I will have to face this operation in the near future.

My friends have told me that such an operation leaves a woman with extreme anxiety and depression and has a tendency to make a normal woman too emotional. It has been suggested that marriages can be broken unless the husband understands the stresses of the operation. Is all this true? Where can I get advice and help to avoid upsetting my family?

Mrs. V. L. L. Massachusetts

Dear Mrs. L.: Obviously you have been told about the need for the removal of the womb (hysterectomy) by a physician or surgeon. It is strange, therefore, that the information you seek should have been given to you by your solicitous friend.

Certainly a frank discussion with your doctor would have alleviated your anxieties and given you a better understanding of the after-effects of such an operation.

Special Tensions

The removal of the uterus is unquestionably filled with special tensions and anxieties because it represents a radical change in many of the functions of the body. However, there are now many hormones carefully selected and administered under supervision that reduce the body's temporary hormone imbalance.

A hysterectomy, with or without the removal of the ovaries, usually creates an artificial menopause (change of life), and is accompanied by some emotional changes that need sympathetic understanding by the husband. In a mature relationship, the husband learns to appreciate the temporary emotional strains produced by such an operation and helps his wife to return to normal physical and emotional health.

Reliable answers to your questions and clarification of your confusion are available to you through one constant source. Your physician and your physician alone can best appreciate your problems and can help free you of the unnecessary perplexities that have surrounded your situation.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Marathon

In 490 B.C., Darius the Great of Persia sent an army across the Aegean Sea to conquer the city-states of Greece. A vastly outnumbered Greek force defeated the Persians on the Plain of Marathon.

Phedippides, a Greek courier, ran to Athens to report the victory. As son as Phedippides delivered the good news, he fell dead from exhaustion.

When the ancient Olympic games were revived in 1896 a race was added in honor of Phedippides. The distance of the race was 26 miles and 385 yards, the distance from Marathon to Athens.

This race was called the Marathon. The name was applied later to any long race or test of endurance.

Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton

Canada will release the five-cent commemorative "Peace among Men and Nations" April 8.

The United States next issue will be the New York World's Fair issue, a five-cent stamp and a five-cent embossed envelope, both at Flushing, New York, April 22, the opening day of the fair.

The United Nations redesigned 15 and 25-cent air mail stamps, to replace the present ones, will have first day sale May 1.

Many collectors receive first day covers (these are covers issued by the town or city that has the new issue stamp released in that city, and the covers are cancelled "First Day of Issue").

The policy of the Post Office Department is to sell the new stamps issued in all the post offices the day following the first day of issue. For instance the New York World's Fair issue will have first day sale April 22 at Flushing, New York, but none of the post offices will have them on sale until April 23.

Collectors getting first day covers are certain to receive at least one of each issue of new stamps. This is due to most countries setting aside enough of each new issue to service all covers. Then the balance is distributed for sale at the post offices.

Sometimes in cases where there are small printings of a new stamp, very few are put on sale and these are quickly sold. Then collectors must pay a premium to get a copy. This happened in the United Nations with the 10th anniversary souvenir sheet (Oct. 24, 1955), but all those getting first day covers received them.

If you are a collector and wish to be sure of getting at least one of each new stamp issued it would pay you to avail yourself of this service.

Club News

The Monroe Stamp Club will meet tonight at 8 p.m. A club auction will be held and in order that all members may have an equal chance to sell some of their extras, not more than ten lots will be accepted from any one member.

Don't forget the rummage sale April 10-11. Get your rummage in now.

Local Emphasis On Water Recommended To DRB-LWV

EAST STROUDSBURG — Local action to preserve the quality of water, local reservoirs to prevent flood damages and local promotion and support of flood control legislation were recommended at the annual conference of the inter-League Council of the Delaware River Basin of the League of Women Voters.

Col. Elmer P. Yates, District Engineer for the U.S. Army Engineer District, Philadelphia; Peter DeGelleke, chief, Division of Recreational Resources Planning for the N.E. Region, National Park Service; and John Sullivan, regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, were among the speakers at the Inter-League meeting at Cherry Hill Inn, Cherry Hill, N.J.

Three members of the League of Women Voters of the Stroudsburgs attended the meeting with delegates from Leagues in Penna., New York, New Jersey, and Delaware. They are Mrs. John P. Britton, Mrs. David Lambert, and Mrs. Francis A. Penzance.

Col. Yates reviewed the comprehensive plan for the Delaware River Basin whose eleven water projects affect over 21 million people in New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

Planning for the future use and needs of water is one of the prime functions of the DRBC. In the next 50 years population and employment will probably double. At present the annual cost of flood damages in the Delaware Basin is $7,867,000.

The cost of damages will double at the same rate if there is no flood control. Water requirement increase will be four times greater, Col. Yates said.

He said that water quality is not a serious problem now. He said the principal effort necessary in the local area to continue work is getting correct elimination of wastes and local control of contaminants.

"Reservoirs do not solve the problem," Col. Yates said. "Local areas can do much to prevent flood damage by regulation construction, area reclamation, and reconstructing flood plains," he said.

Control through use and occupancy, regulation through construction and development of flood plains, permanent evaluation of flood plains and the establishment of flood warnings for emergency, as well as protective measures by cleaning stream beds are all recommendations of Col. Yates and the Army Corps of Engineers.

The eleven major plans in the Delaware Basin which the Federal government is concerned with include the Tocks Island and Bellsville Dams. All of the eleven have recreational facilities. The federal plan recommends in addition to the 11 big dams the construction of 39 smaller dams and reservoir projects which would be up to the local areas to establish.

Tocks Island A major part of Col. Yates' discussion was about the Tocks Island project. The dam which is estimated to be completed by 1975 will give flood control, water supply, hydro-electric power and recreational facilities to the area.

Answering questions of League delegates he said that the cost of water by users will be reimbursed to the states by the DRBC. A question concerning the flood caused by the failure of the huge dam in California last year was attributed to the construction differences between the California dam and the proposed Tocks Island Dam. Seepage at the bottom of the reservoir backed up causing breakage and the flood.

"Geologically and structurally they are different," he said. Concerning the recreation area he said that water fluctuation of the dam during the summer has to be worked out after completion for it is impossible to tell about it now.

Peter DeGelleke of the Division of Recreational Resources Planning spoke about "Tocks Island as a National Recreation Area." The 12,000 acre lake, 33 miles long and one and a half miles wide will give seven million visits per year if provisions to make it a National area are added.

He listed the logical reasons for making Tocks Island a national recreation area. They are: enhancement of adjoining lands and states involved, and natural, historical and scenic area. He warned that if the Tocks Island area does not become a national area it will become filled with flammable schemes and end up like Coney Island.

John Sullivan, regional director of the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, said that the Tocks Island Dam will directly affect a three state area. It has one of the greatest needs for additional recreation and water space.

Citizen's Interest Frank Dressler, executive director of the Water Resources Association of the DRBC spoke of the citizen interest, participation and understanding of the Tocks Island Project. "A series of impacts, in different periods will be of no great economic, social or political consequences until 1967," he said, "but if we wait until then, it may be too late." One hundred million dollars is needed for land acquisition, contracts are going to be needed and then it will be an impact. Local governments may feel a pinch but afterwards it will be a great economic boom. Location of relocation of roads to and from the dam will be an impact on local areas surrounding the Tocks area.

Workers will bring in families. The children must be schooled and they must have a place to live. He said that planning and zoning is a necessity, not only for road construction but for sewage and water facilities to handle the flow of traffic. Police and fire protection must be provided.

These are regional not local problems for they can be for all use. He stressed the need for a Tocks Island Regional Council.

Mrs. C. F. Stewart Sharpe, a member of the National League of Women Voters, recommended that state or local leagues support state or local legislation which implements the principles set forth in Basin projects.

She said that the leagues could, with National League permission, support appropriations for recreation area creation, funds for Corps project in public works bill, help carry ideas to local communities, and individual agencies.

She also suggested that members write their friends in other areas and have them write their Congressmen for "there isn't a great deal of pressure to get bills concerning Tocks Island and other DRBC projects brought forth," Mrs. Sharpe said the league has taken no position on the Land and Water Fund Bill.

Bangor Council's Results Joint Effort, President Says

By JIM SHAFER
Daily Record Reporter

BANGOR — "Before we get too far into this interview I want to make one thing very plain, and that is, the accomplishments of this council are not the result of any one man or any one party. It is a joint effort of all councilmen or the majority of council," John Casoli, council president, said yesterday.

Casoli said he, like most other councilmen, has directed his efforts towards the building of a bigger and better Bangor.

"I am proud to have had a part in obtaining the sewage system, road building and reconstruction, and improvements at the Bangor Memorial Park," he said.

"One of the biggest projects was the sewage system in the borough. This is a project costing about $2,250,000 and one which is a benefit to all the residents of the borough. It benefits the property owner and is a good, strong drawing card for us to get industry into the area," he continued.

Major Contribution Casoli pointed out that the reconstruction and re-location of the East Bangor-Bangor highway is a major contribution to both boroughs, East Bangor and Bangor. He added, "This council can not take complete credit for. The work on the highway was a joint project between the state and the borough."

He smiled, knocked the ashes from his cigarette, and said, "Council has enacted an ordinance covering repair of streets after utility companies have completed their work."

"The ordinance provides that utility company doing maintenance work no longer has to get a permit from the borough to do their work and fill the hole or holes. They then notify council and the borough workmen are dispatched to the area and they repave the area. Then a bill is sent to the utility company."

"We have found that this is a very workable agreement and the outcome is that the highway or street is repaired properly."

Casoli is also proud of the fact that, during his terms on council, new fire equipment has been purchased to replace old or antiquated equipment in the fire department.

"I might add that this has been done without any additional tax money on borough residents," he said.

He pointed out that the newest piece, a 1,000 gallon pump, was replaced Saturday.

With his eye on the future he said, "Council has made several improvements at Bangor Memorial Park and we have plans to make additional improvements there."

May Annex Area "Council also has tentative plans to annex a portion of Washington Twp. into the borough. The area in mind is in the vicinity of the Blue Valley Farm Buildings. This property (the farm show buildings) is owned by the Bangor Exchange Club. With the annexation of the area we will be able to offer fire and police protection, and other services the borough now extends to the public."

"Also planned in the near future is the reconstruction of Pennsylvania Ave. However, this will not come about until after the reconstruction of Market Street is completed," he said.

"Council plans to re-activate its planning commission. This will be done at the April 6 meeting of council. We have had an ordinance providing for planning and zoning in the borough but the ordinance has not been placed into operation. I am of the opinion that this is necessary to do this to carry out council's 'A Bigger and Better Bangor' plan," he added.

Casoli pointed out that the Bangor Gas Co. has cooperated with council on the reconstruction of Market Street. The utility company is placing new gas mains in the area and is extending lines into all property along the project area.

"The gas company is even running line into property which at this time does not use gas. The company is also doing the same thing at vacant lots. They are doing this with an eye toward the future. After the street is completed the company will have no reason to come in and tear it up. Good Foresight

"I believe this is good foresight on the part of the company. I don't know, but I believe that this is a great savings to the firm. I'm sure it would be more costly for them to come in after the street is completed, tear it up to do the work necessary and then pay the borough to make the necessary repairs," Casoli said.

Again he said, "Please, when you write this story, make sure the people know that the things I talk about are not the efforts of me alone. There are 11 other councilmen and a mayor that have worked to get these things accomplished."

Bangor Area Chamber Moves To Revitalize Community

BANGOR — The Bangor Area Chamber of Commerce — in the process of revitalizing itself — is trying to drum up community spirit and cooperation among businesses and organizations.

"It looks good," said Harry Callie, president of the chamber.

Callie said that the chamber is in the final stages of its own reorganization.

"We were very inactive for the last three years," Callie said, "but we now have a very enthusiastic response to our membership drive. We have a total of 85 members and are shooting for 125."

"We have divided the chamber in groups, each with a special function. The groups will take care of the various activities of the chamber."

"I must note that our organization is the Bangor area chamber, not just the Bangor chamber. It encompasses the whole region, with about 27,300 inhabitants."

"Last year we sponsored a very nice halloween parade and a Santa Claus program at Christmas, but we are looking toward bigger things."

"We hope to organize sales promotions in the future and we plan to improve the recreational facilities."

"We also have an industrial inducement program, which is being handled by the industrial division of the chamber."

"This division answers inquiries about the area and tries to find prospective industries."

"We are also trying to promote the old-time community atmosphere where the business people need the community people to support them, so that they in turn may support community projects to help the people."

"We have a division which will work with the service clubs and organizations."

"This division needs the support of the people — this is part of getting the community spirit among business people and people of the area."

"We have received a lot of interest about the industrial inducement program, due to the fact that the Lehigh Valley Industrial Group head spoke to us about our program."

"We were told that the only way our area can induce industry to settle here is to set up a state belt industrial promotion group."

"We think that we can get all 27,500 people in the area to work together to build a better community — we can progress."

Meets April 13 "Our next Chamber of Commerce meeting is April 13 at 8 p.m. in the Pen Argyl youth center."

"We also plan to meet with the head of the Easton Chamber of Commerce to see what the main objects of their group are, and how they carry out the projects from inception to completion."

"We are also trying real hard to get cooperation between the different area bodies. With this, much can be done."

"If everyone will cooperate, we can do it; with just a chamber of commerce alone, what can we do? Everybody has to work."

"It looks good," Callie said.

Holy Communion 'Hinkey' Hughes At Trachsville In Hospital

KRESGEVILLE — Members of the Trachsville United Church of Christ will be able to receive Holy Communion Sunday, April 5 at the 10:30 service.

"The Communion is being given because of the unfavorable weather Sunday, March 22, which kept some people from attending."

"We were told that the only way our area can induce industry to settle here is to set up a state belt industrial promotion group."

"We think that we can get all 27,500 people in the area to work together to build a better community — we can progress."

Meets April 13 "Our next Chamber of Commerce meeting is April 13 at 8 p.m. in the Pen Argyl youth center."

"We also plan to meet with the head of the Easton Chamber of Commerce to see what the main objects of their group are, and how they carry out the projects from inception to completion."

"We are also trying real hard to get cooperation between the different area bodies. With this, much can be done."

"If everyone will cooperate, we can do it; with just a chamber of commerce alone, what can we do? Everybody has to work."

"It looks good," Callie said.

"We are very satisfied with ELECTRIC HEAT ... would recommend it to anyone"

Mr. and Mrs. John Stahley of Easton feel that electric heat provides many benefits

When friends visit their home, Mr. and Mrs. Stahley enjoy showing them how flameless electric heat contributes to modern living. Their enthusiasm is easily understandable—because electric heat has advantages no other heating system can provide.

"It is a pleasure to have uniform heat," says Mrs. Stahley, "and it is especially a pleasure that electric heat is so clean." With children in mind, she also appreciates the safety and quiet operation of electric heat.

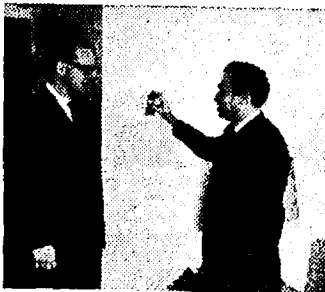

Mr. Stahley adds that the use of ceiling heat gives the family more flexibility in locating furniture. And he says that there are "no hot spots—every part of a room is as warm as the other."

There are now more than 2300 electrically heated homes in this area. Like the Stahleys, these families have found that only electric heat has all the advantages they want. If you are planning to buy, build, remodel or replace your present heating system, you'll find it a good idea to get details on flameless electric heat. See a Reddy Kilowatt Recommended Electric Home Heating Dealer, or call your nearest Metropolitan Edison Company office.

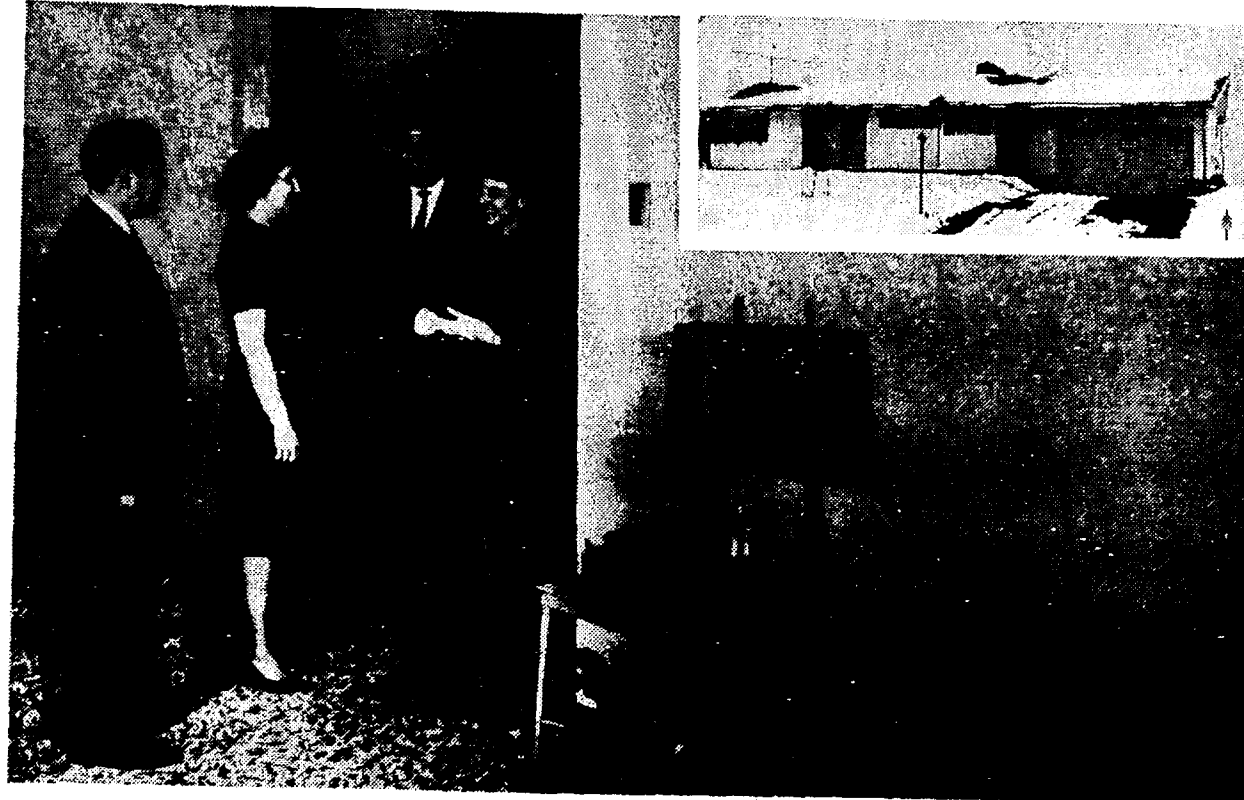

Every woman is pleased with the cleanliness of flameless electric heat. Here, Mrs. Stahley shows Mrs. Kirchgassner how draperies stay fresh and attractive because of absence of soot and fumes.

Accurate, room-by-room temperature control is an important feature of electric heat. And, as Mr. Stahley tells his guest, there's absolutely no maintenance. Just set the thermostat—and enjoy gentle, even heat.

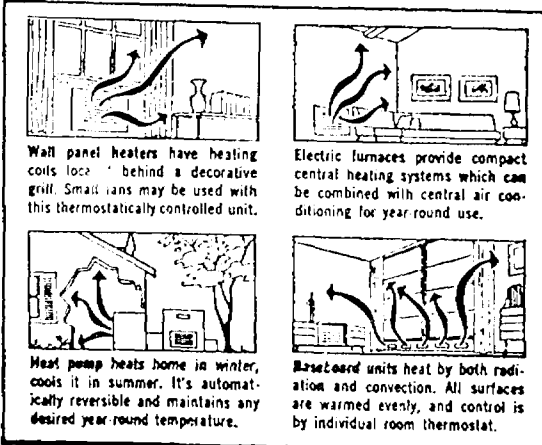

Every part of the Stahley home—including the children's bedrooms—can be kept at the exact temperature desired. The parents also feel that the safety feature of electric heat is extremely important, as far as Carol and the other two children are concerned.

Mr. and Mrs. Stahley welcome their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Kirchgassner. Entertaining's a pleasure in a comfortable, electrically-heated home.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Automation has hit a women's organization. The Garden Club of Monroe County is using steam shovels today to plant flowers and seed lawns.

No longer do the gal members of the group get down on their hands and knees to perform the articulate chore.

How is it done? One woman operates the steam shovel while two more tread the machine and toss in bulbs. This beats the old way of digging and planting, a pleasure that one time enabled 50 women to get into the act.

In fact, the Garden Club ladies are so advanced in automation that they have cancelled all meetings and use a walkie-talkie system to transmit duties.

Some girls dislike the new setup, but the edict stands for better or worse words.

Another idea transmitted by the AAUW of the locale, pinpoints the ending of education for all practical purposes. No more reading is the newest ruling advanced by the American Association of University Women, the group that can't say its name without taking two breaths.

"We've just got tired of books," a public statement from the organization reports. "Everything is in our heads anyway, so why confuse the confused with any more education."

The AAUW also loosened its tight entrance regulations. Now a lot who has finished kindergarten may be eligible to join the club.

Here is a bit of interesting news. The League of Women Voters don't care any more who gets into office. Neither do the fair side of the political world care about issues.

"We've been bucking a stonewall long enough," said one member. "Let the men do all the work. And let the male sex suffer, too."

Right now, the LWV has a proposal before its governing body asking for permission to forget women suffrage and return to the days before Susan B. Anthony came along.

"I'm tired of voting anyway," said one disgruntled member.

No one believes it, but apparently it is true. This year will be the last of paganism. Young ladies are tired of exhibiting themselves before the whites of the eyes of local lovers of feminine pulchritude.

It has been established that teenage girls prefer putting in time in home economic classes instead of cavorting across local high school stages.

An entrant in the Miss Poccon Pageant said yesterday, "One derives so much more from cooking an egg than looking like one."

British 'Mods' Switch Hem From Above Knee To Ankle
LONDON (AP) — Teen-age of five girls — who spread the fad of skimpy skirts, beehive hair styles and dagger-sharp shoes — have suddenly brought back the ankle-length skirt.

It was the one new fashion development in London's East-end parade in the working class suburbs.

"I just got fed up with those extra short skirts I'd been wearing," explained Heather Brodie, 16. "I felt like wearing something completely different."

So, Heather dropped her hem line to her shapely ankles.

To the suggestion that the long long skirts make walking extra difficult, 17-year-old Sandra Pearce said:

"We hobbled just as much in those tight short skirts."

Last Easter holiday the teenagers of London's seamy residential areas shocked many elders when they hiked their skirts far above their knees. Some, in fact, rose almost thigh high.

April Fool Is Work But Worth It

By Linda Pipher

Daily Record Home Economist
Stroudsburg — Hurry, Mom, and cut out the recipe below — you can play a wonderful April Fool's joke on your family. I hope you're the first to read the paper and if he asks why the hole is in the paper just look at him blankly and say, "What hole?"

When Ruth Sibley first asked me if I had heard of the apple pie made with Ritz crackers and no apples I told her that I had but it sounded so screwy that I never bothered to find out about it. She got the recipe from Norma Treble, gave it to me, and suggested I try it and if it was any good to let her know. In other words, I should try it out on my family first — they're used to it!

I'm game for anything when it comes to recipes, but I must admit that as I dropped the crackers into the sugar water I thought to myself that I had really gone too far this time. When I added the spices my eyes almost popped for it certainly looked like cooked apples as I poured the mixture into the pie shell.

I still had my doubts when it came out of the oven; it might look like apples, but it could never taste like them! But, yolly, it did, and I couldn't begin to explain why although I suspect it must be the cream of tartar.

So turn the tables on the kids for a change and serve them this apple pie (it looks like applesauce pie when you cut it). After they've eaten it, yell, "April Fool!" and tell them the ingredients. They'll turn green, but you'll have had your fun.

Norma's Mock Apple Pie
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 cups water
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
20 broken Ritz crackers
Butter, cinnamon, nutmeg
Boil water, sugar, cream of tartar until hard boiling point. Drop in crackers and boil one minute. Stir and pour into unbaked pie shell. Dot with butter and spices and bake for 30 minutes in a 350 oven.

Bill's reaction was why not buy apples and bake an apple pie? He can't see substitutes but it certainly makes a conversation dessert! This next dessert will fascinate your family, too, especially if you tell them the name of it — if you can pronounce it! Sounds elegant, looks elegant, but it's simple to make and the layers of surprises are delicious.

Mock Creme Brulee
1 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
2 cups canned applesauce
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 packages regular vanilla pudding
3 cups milk

Combine graham cracker crumbs with nuts, spread evenly in the bottom of a 9 x 9 x 2 inch pan. Bake in a 425 oven for 10 minutes. Cool. Spread applesauce over graham layer. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Refrigerate.

Combine pudding with milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add vanilla. Cool, stirring occasionally to prevent crust from forming. Pour gently over applesauce-cinnamon layer; refrigerate.

Sprinkle brown sugar over the top of the pudding. Run under the broiler for 3 to 5 minutes until sugar forms crust and is caramelized. Refrigerate again until serving time. Makes 8-10 servings.

Did you ever use soup in a cake? This is a good day to experiment and this will really fool your family! Don't tell them what's in it until after they have told you how good it is.

Latman's Lament

PALM SPRINGS, Calif.—He was tall, dark-eyed and boyishly handsome and he talked of such things as schooling, weight and babies. You studied him suspiciously, searching for symptoms of villainy and rascality.

It happens to be the good fortune of some athletes who change cities to take the new town by storm. But with Barry Latman, he arrives with the stature of a guy wanted for embezzlement of church funds, and it becomes his mission to stall the lynching party long enough to chill the beef.

A well-constructed righthanded pitcher, Barry was originally employed by the Chicago White Sox. He was happy. Suddenly, the club was inspired to trade him to Cleveland for Herb Score.

As you doubtless know, Herbie was a large favorite in Cleveland, especially after a line drive by Gil MacDougald had struck him in the eye.

Cleveland is a very erratic town. The fact that not many people there pay to see ball games doesn't, in their view, deprive them of their proprietary interest in the team.

Well, when the Indians unloaded Score, it was judged the most scandalous sellout since Jack the Ripper's mother finked on her own son.

Not especially aware of the strong feeling that pervaded Cleveland, Latman entered the scene with a shoe shine and a smile, and he was all but chased across the county line.

"As soon as I stepped out on the field," recalls Barry, "they hounded me."

Today, the circumstances are strikingly similar. Latman has been traded to the Angels for a local favorite named Leon Wagner, known also as Daddy Wags, and the natives of Los Angeles are stirring.

They have brainwashed Barry to where he personally is agreeing that it was a bum trade. For the Angels, he sees a fragment of sunshine only in that Joe Adcock came along with the deal.

You picture the following exchange between young Latman and a guy trying to console him:

"But Barry, you could win 20 games."

"Wagner is a great hitter," he answers. "He's a cinch for 35 homers."

"He's a .260 hitter and you know it."

"They hate me in L. A. They hated me in Cleveland. The way my luck is running, I'll next be sent to the New York Giants for Y. A. Tittle."

Rising 6 feet 3, Latman is striding about the Angels camp in Palm Springs at 215 pounds, his lowest weight in years. He has pitched the last two seasons at something just short of 240.

His method of losing the extra poundage was less than conventional. Every other day for almost three weeks, he went for a shot from a Beverly Hills obstetrician who saw no reason why the weight-control strategy applied to pregnant women couldn't be effective with big league pitchers, too.

"Each shot burned up 3,600 calories," says Latman. "I then went on a diet calling for 900 calories a day and the pounds melted off."

"How can a guy your size live on 900 calories?" he was asked. "I couldn't live," he answered. "If the diet didn't permit me to drink all the low-cal soda pop I wanted. There were days that I drank 25 cans of that stuff. I felt awful, but it kept my mind off food."

If Barry turns up with morning sickness, swollen feet and a craving for ice cream and pickles, you will know that the pregnancy shot experiment has failed.

Latman's last two seasons with Cleveland have been far from his best, giving him understandable cause for concern. In that time, he won but 15 games.

"One bad season can be forgiven," he says, "but when you have them back-to-back, you have to watch out. What happens with the Angels will be my own doing. Whether I do well or not is only up to me."

Though his lifetime accomplishment as a major leaguer is modest, Latman insists that his theory on pitching is sound. Roughly it is this: Don't worry about the Mantles and the Kalines and the Yastrzemskis. Get the 240 and 250 hitters.

"You can't stop the 300 guys," says Barry. "They're going to get their hits, anyway. Besides, there aren't enough of them to hurt you. You pitch diligently to the lesser batters—the guys who should go out—you're going to succeed in this game. You could even win 25."

Such an eventuality, of course, could square things for the loss of Daddy Wags, but Latman is still hoping that he is traded next time for the worst house in town.

Oregon, Oregon State In Big Six Conference

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Big Six Conference voted unanimously Tuesday to invite Oregon and Oregon State Universities to join the conference and both schools promptly accepted.

Dr. Norman Topping of the University of Southern California, chairman of the board of presidents and chancellors of the Big Six—the Athletic Association of Western Universities—had the announcement made from his office here.

It followed a secret meeting of the conference presidents of San Francisco.

President Arthur S. Fleming of the University of Oregon and President James H. Jensen of OSU, who attended the meeting, accepted the invitation in behalf of their schools.

The old conference included Washington, Washington State, Oregon, Oregon State, California, Stanford, UCLA, Southern California and Idaho. Idaho does not figure in the new set-up of members.

White Sox were taking a big chance a year ago January when they made a seven-player deal with the Baltimore Orioles.

But the deal now has the White Sox thinking about the American League pennant.

If Manager Al Lopez isn't careful, he and General Manager Ed Short may find it more difficult than ever when it comes to deals.

The trade was Hoyt Wilhelm, Ron Hansen, Pete Ward and Dave Nicholson of the Orioles for Luis Aparicio, Al Smith and Dean Stone of the White Sox. Only shortstop Aparicio remains with the Orioles while Lopez, the only AL pilot who has won two flags in his league, has four

WBA President Reveals Telephone Death Threat

By JAMES CARY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edward Lassman, World Boxing Association president, reportedly received threatening telephone calls — one implying he would be shot — after he attempted to strip Cassius Clay of his heavyweight championship.

The Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee heard of this Tuesday from WBA counsel Robert M. Summitt, who said one caller warned:

"If this isn't discontinued you will get the same thing as JFK."

President John F. Kennedy, often referred to as JFK, was shot and killed in Dallas last Nov. 22.

Summitt said the FBI has been asked to investigate the threat.

It was the last scheduled hearing by the subcommittee in its investigation of the Feb. 25 bout in which Clay upset Sonny Liston.

Studies Legislation

The subcommittee is also studying whether to recommend legislation — known as the Kefauver Bill — to put bigtime boxing under a national boxing commissioner.

The hearing brought these other developments.

Efforts "Hamstrung"

Lassman said that without federal backing his association is "hamstrung" in its efforts to clean up boxing.

Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., urged approval of the Kefauver Bill, saying in a statement the federal government must move in until "the fight game is rid of the leeches."

Lassman said the development of satellite communications makes an $8-million to $10-million boxing game possible in the future because of millions around the world that will want to watch it on television.

The WBA president denied his since-abandoned effort to lift Clay's title was based on Clay's affiliation with the Black Muslim movement or the fact Clay is a Negro.

"Hidden Deals"

Rather he said he was concerned about Clay's loud bragging, Clay's conduct at the Liston weigh-in when Clay was fined $2,500 — which Lassman said still is unpaid — and "these hidden deals," an apparent reference to giving Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., the right to promote Clay's next fight and pick his opponent, Liston is a stockholder in Inter-Continental.

Lassman said he feels now that Clay "will champion himself as a true champion all the universe can honor and respect."

He discussed the need for more thorough physical examinations of boxers who have been knocked out or severely punished, saying this would save lives.

Lassman cited specifically the cases of welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Darc, who died after a 1962 bout with Emile Griffith, and of featherweight champion Davey Moore, who died after a 1963 fight with Sugar Ramos.

White Sox Sell Joyce To Mets

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The New York Mets bought Mike Joyce, a 23-year-old righthanded pitcher, from the Chicago White Sox Tuesday for the waiver price of $20,000.

The 6-foot-2, 195-pound University of Michigan graduate joins the club immediately, bringing the Met roster to the 40-player limit.

Joyce joined the White Sox from Indianapolis of the International League toward the end of the 1963 season and had no decisions in six appearances. At Indianapolis, he appeared in 20 games, had a 13-11 mark and an earned run average of 3.89.

Wine, who batted .215, was hitless in 13 previous times at bat when he singled with the bases loaded in the 11th inning and drove in the winning run in the Phillies' 4-3 victory over Cincinnati. Marty Keough homered for the Reds off Art Mahaffey, who had a string of 13 2-3 scoreless innings.

A bases-loaded squeeze hunt by Charlie Lau in the 10th inning gave Kansas City a 5-4 decision over the New York Yankees, who committed five errors, and Willie Stargell's two-run homer in the third started Pittsburgh on the way to an 8-4 triumph over the New York Mets.

When we got Wilhelm, I thought he was the best relief pitcher in the league (until Boston's Dick Radatz came along). Hoyt finished 40 of the 55 games in which he appeared. He helped tighten our pitching to where our staff had the best pitching in the league (a 2.97 overall earned run record).

Too Many Strikeouts

"Nicholson's trouble is striking out the batted a record 175 (times) but he has all the tools and is our left fielder. He improved tremendously late in the year and can become one of the great stars of the game. He hit 22 homers but batted only .229.

"We finished only 10½ games behind the Yankees and no matter who pitched they had a great year. They came up with Jim Bouton and Al Downing (21 and 13 wins, respectively). That's why they won.

That's why they won.

That's why they won.

That's why they won.

That's why they won.

Lynch Lauds Pinch Hitters

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Jerry Lynch of the Pittsburgh Pirates, probably the only player in the major leagues who is too good to play regularly, appreciates the peculiar problems his pinch-hitting talents have created for his managers.

"You take two guys of equal ability," Lynch said by way of explanation. "One of them can pinch hit and the other can't. Well, you just have to play the one who can't pinch hit, and you have to keep the guy who can pinch hit ready on the bench.

"That's been the story with me most of the time."

Lynch, a 33-year-old left-handed swinger acquired from Cincinnati last season, has made pinch hitting fashionable and profitable. He doesn't think of himself as a second-line player riding the bench but as a first-line player with a specific duty to perform.

Changes Mind

"I used to feel when I wasn't playing every day I wasn't helping the club," said Lynch in Florida the other day. "But I've changed my mind about that. I'm usually saved for a tight spot and if I were the manager I'd play it the same way.

"I'm always hopeful of playing some—if not a lot," he continued. "And I enjoy seeing my name in the line-up, but I have no complaints. After all, I'm well rewarded for what I do. I get a good salary."

Lynch has earned his good salary—reportedly in the $30,000 neighborhood—with an almost fantastic ability to come off the bench cold in a key situation and connect. He holds the major league record for pinch-hit homers with 15. Eight of them have been hit in the ninth inning.

How does Lynch account for his success?

Not Careless

Lynch said the situation itself creates the opportunity. He just takes advantage of it. He explains it this way:

"When you're playing day in and day out every inning doesn't have a crisis and you don't have to bear down every minute. You may not believe that but it's true. So you tend to become a little careless.

"When you come off the bench to pinch hit, you come off 90 per cent of the time in the last or next to last inning when you can win the game. You can't be careless. That gives you the opportunity."

The Celtics thus took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-7 Eastern Division finals in the National Basketball Association playoffs which continue here Thursday night.

Russell—the bearded, brooding of the last few weeks—became florid at the basket. Boston was trailing 31-28 in the second period when Russell dramatically changed the complexion of the game.

Sudden Flurry

In a sudden flurry, he set up three baskets including a blind pass for a Willie Naulls layup, scored three points, lunged high off the court to intercept a long pass and blocked a sure layup by league most valuable player Oscar Robertson.

The Celtics outscored Cincinnati 15-3 in the flurry and led 49-50 at halftime.

Warriors Battle St. Louis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors open battle Wednesday night to retain their lusty-and-muscle Cinderella image against the invading St. Louis Hawks in the Western finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

First game in the best-of-seven series has the cozy 5,000-seat University of San Francisco gymnasium as its setting since the cavernous 15,000-seat Cow Palace has been pre-empted for hockey.

On the basis of the regular season, the set appears a toss-up. San Francisco won six and St. Louis six in their meetings. Of those in San Francisco each won two and on neutral courts in Northern California they split a pair.

The Warriors, with three big men in 7-1 Will Chamberlain, 6-9 Wayne Hightower and 6-11 rookie Nate Thurmond won the Western division title by two games over St. Louis during the regular season.

The Warrior's triumph came as a big surprise since they finished fourth a year ago and didn't even make it to the playoffs. With the victory, they got a week to rest while St. Louis and Los Angeles battled for the playoff right to face them. The Hawks won the fifth and deciding game Monday night.

Meanwhile the rest didn't do too much good for the Warriors. During a practice session, veteran starting forward Tom Meschery broke the little finger on his right hand. He'll play but his efficiency remains a question.

Shortstops Smack Long Balls

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three light-hitting shortstops — Washington's Ed Brinkman, Ron Hansen of the Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia's Bobby Wine — took over the key offensive roles in exhibition baseball games Tuesday.

Brinkman, who hit .228 last year, stroked two doubles and three singles in a 16-hit Senators' attack that overwhelmed Baltimore 11-5. The victims were Steve Barber, the Orioles' 20-game winner; Stu Miller and Herman Starrette.

Hansen, a .226 swinger, slammed two homers and drove in six runs as the White Sox edged St. Louis 7-6. Hansen's second homer, a three-run shot in the eighth, overcame a 5-4 Cardinal lead. Ken Boyer and Jerry Boucheck homered for St. Louis.

Wine, who batted .215, was hitless in 13 previous times at bat when he singled with the bases loaded in the 11th inning and drove in the winning run in the Phillies' 4-3 victory over Cincinnati. Marty Keough homered for the Reds off Art Mahaffey, who had a string of 13 2-3 scoreless innings.

A bases-loaded squeeze hunt by Charlie Lau in the 10th inning gave Kansas City a 5-4 decision over the New York Yankees, who committed five errors, and Willie Stargell's two-run homer in the third started Pittsburgh on the way to an 8-4 triumph over the New York Mets.

Philadelphia (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles traded quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and defensive back Jimmy Carr to the Washington Redskins Tuesday for quarterback Norman Sneed and defensive back Claude Crabb.

The trade was the second major move in less than two weeks by the Eagles, striving to rebuild a last place club under Joe Kuharich, their new coach.

Jurgensen is 29 and a veteran of seven years in the National Football League. Sneed is 24, and only three years out of Wake Forest College. Carr is 31, while Crabb is 24.

Another Trade

Only 11 days ago, the Eagles traded Tommy McDonald, for years Jurgensen's favorite pass-receiving target, to the Dallas Cowboys for Lynn Hoyer and John Meyers, a pair of young linemen, and Sam Baker, a veteran place-kicking specialist.

Sneed, 6-foot-4, 215 pounder, was the first draft choice of the Redskins in 1960, and Washington Coach Bill McPeak has consistently predicted greatness for the young passer. Last year Sneed completed 175 of 363 passes for 3,043 yards and 13 touchdowns.

Jurgensen, disabled for more than half of the 1963 season, experienced his worst year since taking over the Eagles' first-string quarterbacking duties in 1961. He gained 1,413 yards on 184 attempts and threw only 13 TD passes.

Drafted From Duke

The Eagles drafted Jurgensen from Duke in 1957, and when Norm Van Brocklin retired after leading the Eagles to the 1960 NFL championship, Jurgensen took over the quarterbacking post. His first season he tossed 32 TD passes as the Eagles finished second to the New York Giants in 1961.

In the January, 1962, Payoff Bowl game in Miami, Jurgensen suffered a severe shoulder separation and was slow to round into form in 1962. The Eagles fell into the Eastern Division basement, where they remained last year.

Rides For Handicapped

By Cy Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY: Because my own mother is confined to a wheelchair, I got this idea of ferrying handicapped persons around. Although I don't have signed contracts, there is a lot of interest in my project, and I am designing special doors for my automobile. Yesterday, I got a score, as a friend told me an organization in New York State is franchising such a small business. What about this?

MR. JOE VANGUARD

DEAR JOE: Ronald Brazman and his three-year-old son of America have a franchise for transporting handicapped persons to the headquarters in Minnesota. Through specially equipped and designed mobile units, Brazman's company claims to offer safe, comfortable and economical transportation for the handicapped. Here is what he tells me regarding his business: "I became interested in this aspect of rehabilitation when, as a social worker, with a master's degree, I was employed by agencies in the rehabilitation area. It was apparent that many persons who could benefit by rehab services were not taking full advantage of community resources because of their inability to transport themselves. Ambulance service was quite expensive and the majority of would-be clients could not afford the high cost of having a spouse or relative take time off from work to do the transporting."

Brazman's specially equipped small buses have side entrance es with special ramps, and facilities for strapping each wheel chair in place inside the bus. Services now have operations in Minneapolis, San Francisco, Oakland, and Los Angeles. But, why let that deter you, Joe?

What happens in California and Minnesota won't solve problems for handicapped persons in your area. Opportunities for serving the handicapped have never been greater.

CY

DEAR CY: My husband had the nerve to show me an ad he tore out of a magazine. It was addressed to me and asked them to get their wives started on a career. The reason we have so many working wives is money-hungry husbands. Husbands may be winning the home wars, but not mine.

MRS. HOMER

DEAR MRS. HOMER: Latest U.S. Census department disclosures reveal one fact: paychecks are in the minority for the first time. We now have 2,143,000 more families with two paychecks than with one, which number 21,000,000. Who's winning the battle of the sexes? I'll take the cosmetic and dress manufacturers!

CY

DEAR CY: So-called progress has bounced me out of a land job, so I want to fish for a living. On Lakes Erie or Ontario. Would appreciate any dope you may have on fishing as a business, or where to get it.

FISH-MAN

DEAR FISH-MAN: The United States department of the interior, fish and wildlife service, has produced leaflets on almost every angle for invading a fish's privacy. Literature includes information on gear, fishing boat builders, unions, fishing laws, canning and preserving, dealers, trade journals, manufacturers of equipment, cooperatives, marketing and fishing areas. Write the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. for a list of fishing information.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 3 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

'Paupack, Wayne Boards To Discuss Reorganization

NEWFOUNDLAND — A special meeting of the Walpolepaupack Area Joint School Board and the Wayne County School Board will be held at 8:15 p.m. on Thursday, April 2, at the library of the new high school. Purpose of the special session is a discussion of school district reorganization.

Earlier this week, members of the joint board received copies of the reorganization manual, which gave a resume of Act 209, standards for school district reorganization and interpretation of standards; the Department of Public Instruction Conference; a map of the present Wayne County plan; a list of resident pupils by districts for 1961, 1962 and 1963; market and assessed valuation by administrative units; ways of proposed plans for Wayne County; and the statistics of the proposed plans.

There are three plans under consideration at the present time. Each will be discussed with each joint district before the county board takes action.

The first plan is a one-county unit including Scott, Preston, Buckingham, Manchester, Damascus, Clinton, Waymart, Canaan, South Canaan, Lake, Salem, Sterling, Dreher, Greene, Palmyra Pike, Palmyra Wayne, Blooming Grove, Lackawanna, White Mills, Hawley and Honesdale Union (Mt. Pleasant, Lehigh and Starucca are assigned to other counties).

The second plan being considered is a two-unit plan including the present Walpolepaupack and the present Western Wayne as one unit, and the Honesdale Union District plus the remaining townships as a second unit.

The third plan includes three administrative units: Walpolepaupack, Western Wayne, and the remaining unorganized districts plus Honesdale Union.
